A close-up, low-angle photograph of two telescopic channel hardware components. The components are dark-colored, possibly black or dark grey, and are shown in a perspective view that emphasizes their length and the precision of their manufacturing. The top component is slightly offset from the bottom one, showing the interlocking mechanism of the channels. The background is a solid, vibrant blue, which makes the dark hardware stand out. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the metallic texture and the various holes and slots along the length of the channels.
